This week I have signed off the parish accounts for the financial year 2017/2018. This is an opportune moment to publicly thank all of you who take responsibility for the weekly collection ensuring that it is safely banked and recorded. This is a demanding role in the Church and I would like to acknowledge the careful and accurate nature of your application. One of our parishioners takes overall responsibility for the parish accounts on my behalf, and I am very grateful to David Blake for the generous application of his professional skills, together with Lorraine Doyle who has helped with the bookkeeping. (FG)

Thoughts from today's Gospel reading: Mark 14

Today is the Solemnity of the Most Holy Body and Blood of Christ. At one time, this day was called Corpus Christi, the Latin words for "the Body of Christ."

In our reading for today, we read the account of the Last Supper found in the Gospel of Mark. It begins with the instructions that Jesus gave to his disciples to prepare their Passover celebration, and goes on to give an account of the Last Supper.

The Gospel describes Jesus' Last Supper with his disciples as a celebration of the Jewish feast of Passover. In the description of the Passover meal found in today's Gospel Mark describes only the elements he believes to be most essential to the Christian Eucharist: Jesus took bread, blessed the bread, broke the bread, and shared it with his disciples. Similar words & actions follow as Jesus shares the chalice with his disciples.

This bread now shared is Jesus' own body.

Those who drink from the chalice are invited to share in a new covenant which will be sealed by Jesus' own blood. Mark's Eucharistic theology looks forward to the Kingdom of God that Jesus inaugurates.

The Gospel reminds us that the Eucharist is a memorial of Christ's sacrifice on the cross. We believe Jesus is truly present to us in the elements of bread and wine. Each time we celebrate this sacrament, we prepare for the Kingdom of God. This celebration is the source and summit of the Christian life.

As you know plans have been underway for some time to carry out the essential job of underpinning Royle House at a cost of around £40,000. This work is due to start on Monday 4th June and will take at least four weeks. During this time, due to the scale of the work involved, the drive to the house will be fenced off, and we will not be able to drive cars around the Church, access to Church will be on foot only up the main drive. We will update you on the progress of the work and let you know when the grounds will be accessible.
